A NEW APPORTIONMENT BILL.

Congressman Dannel introduced a measure making several changes in the present States' Representation—The House's New Postmaster Army Appropriation Bill Completed—Proceedings of the House and Senate and Other National News.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Mr. Dannel, chairman of the house committee on the eleventh census introduced in the house yesterday a bill making an apportionment of representatives in congress among the several states. The bill provides that after the third day of March, 1893, the house shall be composed of 356 members. The representation of some of the states is increased as follows:

Alabama, 1; Arkansas, 2; California, 1; Colorado, 1; Georgia, 1; Illinois, 2; Kansas, 1; Massachusetts, 1; Michigan, 1; Minnesota, 2; Missouri, 1; Nebraska, 1; New Jersey, 1; Oregon, 1; Pennsylvania, 2; Tennessee, 2; Texas, 2; Washington, 1; Wisconsin, 1.

The representation from the other states will remain unchanged. Section 2 of the bill provides that whenever a new state is admitted to the Union, the representative or representatives assigned to it shall be in addition to the number 356.

Section 3 provides that in each state entitled under this apportionment, the number to which such state may be entitled in the Fifty-third and each subsequent congress, shall be elected by districts composed of contiguous territory, and containing as nearly as practicable an equal number of inhabitants. The districts are to be equal in number to the representatives to which the state is entitled in congress, no one district electing more than one representative.

Section 4 provides that in case of an increase in the number of representatives which may be given to any state under this apportionment, the additional representative or representatives shall be elected by the state at large and the other representatives by the districts now prescribed by law, until the legislature of the state.

This bill is very like the one recently introduced by Representative Frank, of Missouri. The apportionment is on the same basis of representation. The Dannel bill, as introduced, has been agreed to by the Republican members of the census committee, and it will probably be reported back to the house tomorrow when the committee meets.

The House's New Postmaster.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—James W. Hathaway, of Montana, has been selected to succeed Capt. Wheat, of Wisconsin, as postmaster of the house. The selection was made at a Republican caucus held immediately after the house adjourned yesterday afternoon. One ballot only was cast. Mr. Hathaway received 13 votes against 39 votes for the other candidates.

Mr. Hathaway was born in Ohio forty-eight years ago. In 1862 he enlisted in the One Hundred and Fifth Ohio volunteers and in the fall of that year received a gun shot wound at Perryville, Ky., which permanently disabled him for active service. After the war he went to Montana. He has been deputy United States marshal for the territory, deputy collector of internal revenue and county sheriff and is secretary of the Republican state committee. The other candidates were Samuel Hosmer, the present assistant postmaster of the house; Messrs. Barnes and Ralph of Illinois; and Reed of Minnesota.

In the senate some minor measures were passed. In presenting a bill relating to the circulation Mr. Plumb said that he would soon ask to have the election bill laid aside and financial matters considered. Debate on the election bill was resumed and Mr. Berry and Mr. Daniel spoke against it.

LABOR FEDERATION.

Proceedings of the Second Day of the Convention.

THE SOCIALISTS RULED OUT.

Almost the Entire Day Put in Discussing This One Important Subject Before the Final Vote is Taken, Which Results in More Than Three to One Against the Socialists.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 10.—The second day of the American Federation of Labor convention was called to order at 9:15 in the morning. The announcement of the formation of two new National unions—the retail clerks and the waiters and bartenders—was received with applause.

Secretary Evans reported showed that during the year ending Oct. 1, 1890, 274 charters were issued to unions in thirty-three states.

The receipts from Dec. 2, 1889, to Oct. 1, 1890, were $24,714.64; expenditures, $21,073.57; balance, $3,641.07. Resolutions were introduced to levy a quarterly tax of ten cents, to support men out on strike; to organize state branches of the Federation, protesting against the action of the amalgamated association against the patternmakers of Cleveland, endorsing the eight hour adjustment act now before the senate, calling for government control of telegraphs; providing for a world's labor congress in Chicago in 1893, to declare against the Knights of Labor; protesting against use of soldiers, policemen and Pinkerton things to intimidate labor.

Up to 12 o'clock the time was chiefly taken up in appointing committees and hearing reports. The special committee appointed to examine the credentials of Lucien Sanial, from the Central Federation of Labor of New York city, announced their readiness to report and the report was called for. Their report, which was a lengthy one, was read by the secretary of the committee, F. K. Foster, and stated that the committee had made a careful investigation of the matter. They had listened to statements from President Gompers, Lucien Sanial, August Wallinger and Ernest Bohm, and had after discussion, reached a conclusion.

They recommended the cordial acceptance of the fraternal expressions proffered by the Socialist Labor party through Mr. Sanial, and declared that the hopes and aspirations of the Socialist and Labor unionists are very similar. The committee held that the American Federation of Labor is committed against the introduction of matters political or religious, and that it could not logically admit the Socialist Labor party to representation and shut its doors in the face of other political organizations. The committee expressed the opinion that no political party was entitled to representation in the American Federation, at the same time deprecating the necessity which had arisen of refusing seceders of their companionship, that privilege.

They accordingly recommended that the credentials presented by Mr. Sanial from the Central Labor Federation be returned; that the action of President Gompers in refusing that body a charter was in accordance with the constitution of the American Federation and be affirmed; and that the charter be returned to the Central Federation of Labor.

The action of the executive committee in refusing to return the Central Federation's charter is affirmed, as that body virtually ceased to exist when the charter was surrendered; that the convention, while declining to admit representatives from the Socialist Labor party, at the same time declare itself tolerant of all phases of the reform movement, and that it would bar no delegate on the ground of his individual political or religious beliefs.

Mr. Morgan presented a motion, which was seconded providing that no action be taken on the report of the committee, that the report be published in full, together with the statements of President Gompers and Lucien Sanial and referred to the bodies represented in the convention, which shall consider the matter thoroughly, and instruct their delegates to the next convention as to what course they shall pursue in anticipation of its being brought up at that time. Mr. Morgan made a brief address in support of his motion.

President Gompers called Delegate Homston to the chair and addressed the convention on the motion. Short addresses were also made by F. K. Foster and George E. McNeill. At this point the hour for adjournment—12 o'clock—had arrived and a recess was taken till 2 o'clock.

The convention assembled at 2 o'clock for the afternoon session. The roll was called and the minutes of the morning session read and approved. The resolution offered in the morning by Mr. Morgan was voted down. A resolution was then offered respecting the report of the committee and admitting the petition of the Central Federation of Labor for a charter be allowed, and that Sanial be given a seat in the convention.

The latter part of this motion was ruled out of order by the president, who called J. J. Daly to the chair, and taking the hour, offered to give the convention his statement of the affairs which, until this time, he had persistently refused to make. His offer was accepted. After an ably discussion the previous question was called for and a roll vote was taken. This resulted in eighty delegates voting in favor of the motion, 110 in opposition, and 10 abstaining. While twenty-nine delegates, with a total of 155 votes, voted in favor of the motion, the motion was defeated.

UNSETTLED SILVER MARKET. Colorado Smelters Looking to Congress for Relief.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—A special to The Herald from Denver, Col., says the unsettled condition of the silver market is causing serious trouble among Colorado smelters and these mines producing low grade silver, and unless something is speedily done by congress hundreds of low grade mines in that state will be compelled to close down.

When the price of silver went up under the present silver bill the low grade producers sent thousands of tons of ore to smelters which was purchased at the advanced price. The smelters are now loaded down with low grade ore which cannot profitably be treated at the present price of silver, while these producers cannot find a market for their ore. Three firms in this city figure their loss since the decline at ten cents per ounce on $1,500,000 worth of mineral. Hundreds of mines in the west are expected to shut down.

—Bueyrus Forum: Innumerable advertising schemes are being worked by sharks who travel from place to place after suckers and their cash. They talk plausibly and offer something called an advertisement for a fancy price. The guileless business man who is too wise to advertise in the home papers invariably bites. He turns over his hard cash to the shark and gets nothing in return. So runs the world.

THE U. V. U. CAMPFIRE.

A Late Report of the Jolly Meeting of Veterans on Saturday Night.

General Harker Command, No. 41, U. V. U., held a pleasant campfire last Saturday night. A good number of veterans were present and, after the formal opening and transacting of some routine business, threw off the restraints of secrecy and opened the doors to all who could give the proper countersign, which was that he should have smelled gunpowder in a hostile affray and heard the real rebel yell.

Improvised tables were soon spread and a huge pot of hot coffee produced, and Col. Wolfe ordered the attack. It is not necessary to say it was vigorously opened along the whole line, but there was plenty of work for all and for the fellow who came at the eleventh hour—to bring up the reserve. Even he found all he could attend to, and it was soon a question who had done the greatest amount of execution. The silent vote was in favor of the belated comrade and when he came to speak he was too full for utterance. Seriously, the tables, the warm, carpeted room, the comfortable chairs, the gas light and the character of the viands and cooking strongly reminded us that we were only playing soldier. How different the reality!

With piles of eatables still before us, too much for our worn out appetites, Col. Wolfe called for order and the talking began. The occasion was intended for jollity and good cheer, so very little allusion was made to the serious work of the war, but each told some experience of foraging, or some lively incident or ludicrous circumstance.

It was agreed that Col. Wolfe had traveled farther and worked harder to reach some Tennessee applejack and got less of it than any man in the command; that Lieut. Col. Sheats, innocent fellow, took less from the enemy than he ought; that Maj. Dairy was the only man of the whole Union army who found a land really flowing with milk and honey, but he was afraid to take these good things for fear they would sour his stomach—as if such was possible with any soldier.

Quartermaster May, owing to his early Sunday school training, could not do much foraging, yet he could find more hogs in a given space than any of us. Officer-of-the-Day Ash had to shoulder the responsibility of playing the meanest trick on a comrade and doing the enemy the most dirt of any.

Comrade Cochereau saw more of the colored women than any man in the army, while Comrade Sam Beerbower took the most note of the little darkies, and could best tell the results of his observations.

It was universally agreed that the silent comrades must assist Comrade Ash in bearing the blame for robbing the enemy and making him contribute to the saving of the Union by feeding the blue-coated boys.

All in all a good time was had. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. S. T. Beerbower for her liberal contribution toward the supper. Comrade Beerbower produced his canteen but, as might have been expected, it was empty. The Officer-of-the-Day made a test of it and reported the small O. K.

A Charming Gentleman.

Raleigh's gold laced cloak flung across the miry pavement would find no approval nowadays. The action would be felt to be as staid as the embroidery. We have passed into a dim age of broadcloth and chimney pot hats. In outward men we differ from the courtiers of Elizabeth as widely as the man past middle age differs from the lad whose photograph records what he once was. It is hard to believe the hair once clustered so low and thick on the brow now so bare—that the deeply graven cheeks were once so round and smooth.

But the good nature within will find expression in subtler ways. The late George Whyte-Melville, standing in a muddy street, was splashed from head to foot by a lady's carriage and pair suddenly pulled up beside the curb. Hat, face, collar, coat, all were literally bespattered, but almost before the lady could lean forward to express her concern he exclaimed: "Ah, Mrs. A. I thought it must be you; you always have the best horses in London."—Blackwood's Magazine.

Fire at Agosta.

A message was received here between 6 and 7 o'clock, this morning announcing that Agosta was in danger of being consumed by fire, and asking that the fire engine be sent over to that place. Before the department had time to consider the matter, another order was received countermanding the first one, the fire having been gotten under control.

Full particulars of the fire have not been received, but so far as learned it was confined to the building occupied by E. E. Drown's hardware store, and the building, owned by George Talt, and a portion of the contents were consumed. The building was a two story frame, the upper portion being used as a dwelling.

Manager Reiser, of the Central Union Telephone Co. here, supposed that the wires had been burnt off at Agosta, but on inquiry found that the wire was up, but a pole had been destroyed by the fire.

The loss entailed and the origin of the fire has not been learned.

Michael Hagan Acquitted.

Michael Hagan, whose trial for the alleged crime of pocket picking occupied the attention of common pleas court Tuesday, was acquitted by the jury, after about twenty minute's deliberation.

Hagan was indicted by the grand jury, but the evidence was not sufficiently strong to convict. The case went to the jury without argument. Bartley Conley, who had a watch and a small amount of money extracted from his pocket during the summer, while near the court house, was the prosecuting witness. The watch was afterwards found in a pile of lumber at Linsley & Lawrence's yards.

WHY?

BECAUSE:

Because all goods are marked so low
That other dealers stand no show.

Why does Sam Oppenheimer sell so cheap,
And always make his rivals weep?
Why is it that he always smiles,
And always keeps the latest styles?
Why does his window look so fine,
And keep you gazing all the time?
Why is it that his coat or hat
Will fit all men, both lean or fat?
Why does he sell so nice a glove—
A gift, dear girls, for those you love?
Why is it that whenever you flirt
You always wear his dollar shirt?
Why does he keep the largest stock,
From which you get a suit or sock?
Why is it that a tie or bow
You always get from him so low?
Why does it happen, rich or poor,
Their money's worth all get for sure?
Why is it that for anything
To him your friends you always bring?

BECAUSE:

Because his goods are new and nice,
And he has strictly but one price.
